The Berlin Vorwaerts, Socialist, urges the German government to forego a war indemnity.

That is very considerate. The Allies probably will aid the Vor-waerts efficiency to that end.

Whenever the British fail to break through, Berlin announces another British defeat. Times have changed.

If the young women are not enlisting for military or naval service very promptly, it is not because they fear an engagement.
They don't.

"Germans figure on splitting up Belgium," was the theme of a debate in the German reichstag, the other day.

And the Allies are figuring on splitting up Germany. That's sorter even up things a bit.

The famous Hindenburg line is getting a bad crimp these days.

A few more crimps like the one given by Johnny Canuck and the whole line will crumpled up.

"British artillery is now paying off old scores," reads a news item

And then adding some to the good on the credit side of the account.

Speaking of the valor of two regiments—or what was left of them—just returned from the front, the Crown Prince is reported as saying, "With such troops we can fetch the devil from hell."

Evidently the Crown Prince knows pretty well where the kaiser may make his abode.

There has been hand to hand fighting in Bullecourt between the British and German troops.

In the end the Germans came out bullybeef—after Johnny Bull had gotten through with them.

"If the home army holds on then we are certain of victory," says Hindenburg.

If the Allies had been as well prepared at the commencement of the war as they are now, the war would have been over in three months.

Nearly a Fatal Accident

Occurs to a CHINOOK MAN

On Saturday afternoon last,
a young man named Brown, who is working for Mr. Ed. Turner, a mile or two north of the village, met with a very painful accident, which may yet prove fatal. It seems that Brown was hauling baled hay on a stone boat. He had been cautioned not to ride on the high top bale when going down an incline, but unfortunately it would seem that he did not heed the caution, and while going down the incline later with a load the top bale on which he was sitting rolled off and he was thrown under the horses' feet.

What happened next is not clear, as Brown was knocked unconscious by the fall. But it would seem about two hours later Mr.
Turner found the team of horses just inside the barn and the stone boat partly outside and blocked in the door-way, but the driver was nowhere to be found. Fearing something had happened he had immediately gone in search of Brown, whom he found later on lying on the road, near the incline in a very bad shape, where he had lain for about two hours. The poor fellow's leg and hip were broken, and a fair-sized sliver had been forced in one side of his cheek and coming out the other cheek, and generally battered up. How it all happened he did not know, after pitching under the horses' feet. He was brought to Chinook and taken to Calgary on the early Sunday morning train. Although in such a bad shape, the young fellow was bearing up wonderfully well.

This is a case and an object lesson of the pressing need of a hospital in Chinook. Had ours been ready this case could have been attended to at once, instead of having to wait 24 to 30 hours, during which time much serious consequences may happen, and, perhaps, a life lost.

A Solar Water Heater
Using Sunshine for Heating Water in California

The sun heats the hot water used by many residents of Monroe and other places in southern California. According to the Scientific American, the sunshine water heater consists of a glass pipe arrangement in a box about four inches deep with a copper bottom and a glass top. The apparatus is usually placed on the roof or in a similar exposed location. The rays of the sun heat the water in the tank and there is a circulation that carries the water to a storage tank, from which it is drawn for household usage. The storage tank is so thoroughly insulated that the loss of temperature is negligible. It is usually not more than four or five degrees. Southern California is unusually favored with sunshine, but there seems to be no reason why this economical method of heating water should not be used in other parts of the country during hot, sunny weather.

The Horse's Education
Special Training is Advisable For Farm Horses

It is not too much to say that the majority of farmers pay little or no attention to the education of the horses which they breed. The young animal is given scant attention until the age of two and a half or three years, after which time it is usually put in harness. When he learns to behave himself, to go forward and to stop at certain signals, he is considered as having graduated, and so is said to be properly trained. Some horse breeders, however, make intelligence their masters, manage to pick up an education just as some men do. And it is these horses that know something besides going forward or backward and obeying the signals. These are the ones which have the biggest share of the farm work. These are the ones which the farm hands prefer to use, and the ones most profitable to work. This is the reason that the best horses are not bred as machines, but rather may be depended upon themselves to exercise a certain amount of intelligence in the work they are doing. I know sections where prospective farmers do not even consider buying a horse not trained to voice control for farm purposes. And why not? Cow ponies, cavalry horses, etc., were taught to obey a word or a touch of the whip, even a swat of the master's hand. There is no real spiritual training in men and women, why not of reasonable training of farm horses? Yet farmers and breeders seem satisfied if they persuade a horse to wear harness and drag a load. For many years fall weight on a line to pull him around a corner and back into the furrow or off a corn row or tomato hill, or out of the way of a three-ton truck.

Two Thousand Canadians Prisoners

They Belonged to the Forces Operating in France

According to statistics presented in the British house of commons, 81 officers and 2187 men of the Canadian forces operating in France have been taken prisoner by the Germans. In other branches of the empire forces serving in France the Germans, according to these statistics, made prisoners as follows: British, 102 officers and 28,876 of other ranks; Americans, 21 officers, 822 men; New Zealanders, 19 men; Sudan natives, 9 officers, 601 men. The total number of prisoners secured by the Germans from British empire forces in France is 11,157 officers and 25,519 N.C.O.s, and men.

No Canadian losses are mentioned in the statistics regarding other war theaters. The number of Australasians captured in the Dardanelles is given as 11 officers and 139 other ranks. In all theaters 33 officers and 976 of other ranks from the Australian forces were captured.

SPRING IMPURITIES

IN THE BLOOD

A Tonic Medicine is a Necessity at This Season

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an all year round tonic, blood-builder and nerve-restorer. But they are especially valuable in the spring when the system is fatigued by impurities as a result of the indoor life of the winter months.

There is no other season when the blood is so much in need of purifying and enriching, and every dose of these pills helps to make new, rich, red blood. They are the best medicine for tired Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give strength. In the spring the appetite is often poor—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills develop the appetite, tone the stomach and aid in break digestion. It is in the spring that poisons in the blood find an outlet in discharging pimples, eruptions and boils—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills speedily clear the skin because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood. In the spring, anaemia, asthmatic, hypertension, neuralgia, cramp and many other troubles are most persistent because of poor, weak blood, and it is at this time when all nature takes a new lease of life. The blood will seek those who need attention. Some people today attend to purgatives, at this season, but these only further weaken themselves. A purgative merely gallops through the system, emptying the bowels, but does not clean the body. On the other hand Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually bring new blood which reaches every nerve and organ in the body, bringing new strength, new health and vigor to weak, easily tired men, women and children. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this spring—they will not disappoint you.

A Scheme to Promote Thrift

Working Out Plans to Encourage People to Save Money

A British committee that is promoting thrift has been taking opinions as to the desirability of dispensing with the retail trade and distributing the like being, of course, to remove all suggestions for spending money except such as come from the natural promptings of cold and hunger. Opinions of London merchants are divided, and it is difficult to decide what would be to the idea, and it is doubtful whether go to an unreasonable extreme.

On the other hand, in time of peace the suggestions to spend outturn the suggestions to save a hundred to one. The usual ways of disposing of the money in one's pocket; while, if one seeks a way of keeping the money he has to hunt it up. Recently some widely known men in a British company that proposes to buy government and municipal bonds, deposit them with a trustee, and issue against them saving certificates in denominations as low as ten dollars, which, in cooperation with the trustee, will get into drug stores and so on, will be offered for sale as nearly as possible wherever people go to spend money, so the man or woman with ten spendable dollars will have right in his suggestion that they may be safely and conveniently disposed of without exchanging it for merchandise.

The chief objection to the plan is that it is to be expected that probably a combination of savings clubs could work out a scheme whereby savings certificates for as little as $1 could be had in any city as conveniently as a bundle of cigars or a box of matches. In fact, if they were obtainable could be kept constantly in the public eye. True, there would be little or no direct profit to those who issued the certificates or sold them, but the indirect profit, in the long run, might be large.—Saturday Evening Post.

YES! MAGICALLY! CORN LIFT OUT WITH FINGERS

You say to the drug store man, "Give me a small bottle of freezeon,"

"This will cost very little but will remove all calluses and soft corn or callus from one's feet."

A few drops of this new ether compound applied directly upon a tender, aching corn relieves the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, disappears.

This new way to rid one's feet of corn was introduced by a Cincinnati man, who says that freezeon dries in a moment, and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without irritating the surrounding skin.

Straining Every Nerve

The Bible an Impregnable Fortress
If Our Daily Lives Were Entirely Moulded in Accordance With God's Word

"A few more years will witness the passing of the Bible out of existence."

A greater falsehood was never uttered.

However, the words above quoted recently appeared in the New York publication which is endeavoring to dispel the venomous epithets of infidelity over the North American continent.

The Bible is yet in, so to speak the noonday of its career. The triumphal progress will continue until a glorious era when all nations, kindreds and tongues shall bow before God. For centuries the forces of infidelity have pursued every possible attack against the Bible. It would be interesting to learn from those who desire annihilation of the Scriptures, some details of the proposed ways and means for the betterment of the world. What are the particulars of any agency whereby humanity receives benefit that is not founded upon Biblical text. Has it ever occurred to your becoming the instrument of improvement that would accrue to the world if peoples daily lives were entirely moulded in accordance with God's word?

The whole artillery of atheist and infidel cannot efface one letter from the Bible.

When we realize what the power of the Bible really is, we can but hope the day is not distant when from remote corners of the earth it shall be said by no person: "The Bible has not been given to me"—J.D.A. Evans.

RUIN AND DEATH IN THE WAKE OF FORCED RETREAT OF THE HUNS

PRESENTS SAD PICTURE OF WANTON DESTRUCTION
Horrors of the Countryside Recently Evacuated by the German Army in Retreat is Described by Whyte Williams in an Article in the New York Times

As we approached the ruined villages I was at first not greatly impressed by the damage that had been done. The walls were broken; these French villages had survived hundreds of years; they were built solidly of brick and stone, and ordinary burning does not level them to the ground as would be the case of American villages of the frontier, or as the case of French villages after artillery bombardment. But when we rode through the deserted and silent streets we saw what the Germans had been at work. The walls of the houses were often sheer, concealing charred ruins. Not only one village is like that, nor a dozen, but every single one of the hundreds that have been leveled has been set fire to. Men, women, old men, cripples, left to await the arrival of their own soldiers to care for them, their abode men taken to bondage months ago, their young women and girls herded along with the retreating army, who have done no one dares think without shuddering, red. And at every village the same message was left behind for the French soldiers when they arrived.

"Translated it reads like this: 'You have done here. Well, this is what is going to happen all the way back to the French frontier.' Is it any wonder that the French soldiers told me this said between clenched teeth?

"There is only one answer that, my friend. Let them get down on their knees and pray when the French army crosses the Rhine. We will be taking no prisoners on that day."

The aspect of the villages is sad enough, but the countryside is worse. I have seen much of artillery bombardment during this war that confess I have been rained with ruins. A destroyed church, a house riddled clean to its foundations, is only another example of what I have seen dozens of times before. But the countryside that has so little left of what there is, I have seen through is a sight that made me want to cry and fight at the same time. It has already been reported how churches have been destroyed. I rather suspect that the Germans, encamped just along the roads by which the army retreated. But with field glasses I could see far, far on every side of every road, for miles and miles, fields laid waste, farms destroyed, every garden and every bush uprooted, every tree sawed off close to the bottom. It was a terrible sight and seemed almost worse than the destruction itself. Those thousand trees prostrate upon the earth, their branches waving in the wind, seemed undergoing death agonies before our eyes."

Everything gave its share to the blood lust of the Germans. Churches gone but their steeple still standing, above the brass walls of their alters, even crucifixes upon ruined walls were stripped down and torn asunder. We passed through the remnant of a place called Courteau, a fort, where we came to a broken doorway. We stopped to see her. She smiled at the sight of the French uniforms of our officers. She lived on a farm a mile away. The Germans had come in the night, captured it so that she had come to Port-en-Bouc to hide in the cellar of a friend. Her husband and brother, both old men, had been killed by the Germans during the retreat, her two sons were slaves in Berlin before. One of them had come back but had been seized again only a few weeks before.

Her three daughters had been with her at the farm, but that night the Germans retreated. The had fled with her to the house of a friend, from where they saw their own home of a lifetime in flames. The girls were 20, 21 and 22 years old. The Germans had found them when they awoke. That was eight days before. She had heard nothing of them since. All other young women had likewise vanished that night when the Germans retreated.

She told her story simply in a low unfaltering voice. "But she shuddered as she spoke of her daughters," I said to her.

"The next day after the Germans had gone, how did it seem to see French soldiers appear?"

She replied: "It was such a feeling that it is impossible to describe, with an emotion of joy, monsieur, that is beyond words."

I asked another question: "And how do you feel now—husband, brother, sons and daughters all gone and you left here alone?"

"I shall never forget the sight of her face. She had tears in her eyes and replied,

"Today, monsieur, I am with France—and I have confidence."

Jealousy is a pain that eagerly seeks for what causes it.

Irish Chaplain Makes A Daring Capture

With Party of Dublin Fusiliers He Persuaded Germans to Surrender

The exploit of a Roman Catholic chaplain who, with eighteen Irishmen, brought in 450 very thankful, if somewhat dejected, Germans was referred to by Sir Philip Sassoon as "a most splendid exploit." A reliable correspondent states that the hero of the incident, home on furlough, has just been welcomed by the parishioners of a mining hamlet in Lancashire.

It is related that a party of the Dublin Fusiliers, accompanied by the padre, when returning from a reconnoitering expedition, were assailed by rifle fire from a wood where it was known the enemy were entrenched. The padre, who had been the referee of shell holes, and from the smoke and whistles, for after March 31, the traffic ceases altogether. A vice that has held tens of millions in its clutches is being exterminated. European and American investigators are agreed that the ravages of opium are worse than those of alcohol, but agree that the use of the Eastern drug is a more insidious habit than liquor, drinking hard to stimulate the body.

The present of high-class officials who were at one time users of opium was far higher than the proportion which alcohol could claim among the administrators and representatives of western countries, and representative of the British government have in all cases been hampered by influential personal influence such as would not be met with elsewhere. Ridding the Celestes of its favorite vice has therefore been a greater and more wonderful even than Russia's abolition of vodka; but it has been accomplished after ten years' of well planned work of a thorough, uncompromising kind, to the inalienable benefit and everlasting

The chaplain advanced to meet the troops, informed them that one of their number could return to the wood and give the remaining Germans the assurance that their lives would be spared if they surrendered. The Germans, who had been destined to give the message to his compatriots promptly left, but as he failed to return after a reasonable interval, the "Dubs" tried the effect of another visit. The padre, however, Germans came out, and a repetition of the fire ensued, but another trio tried.

Encouraged by these repeated evidences of the spirit of surrender, the chaplain decided to enter the wood and see if he could change the minds of the Germans. He did so, and the result of his enterprise was that 450 Germans offered to surrender.

They emerged from the thicket, but were confronted only with 150 Frenchmen—their only available force as they probably surmised—number of whom sought to return to the wood, with the obvious intention of renewing the combat. The "Dubs," however, saw but two of the dire threats of the retreating soldiers and soon dispensed all notions of retaliation.

It is stated that one of the German officers approached the chaplain and said: "We might be spared, but the horrors of torture at the hands of the Germans in their forced retreat are不堪忍受。"

This was a statement made by Mr. Robson Black, secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association, Ottawa. "None of the provinces of Canada has ever given up so much timber in five per cent. of northern Manitoba above the open prairie will never give crops other than timber. There is little use bemoaning these facts. We ought to turn them to immediate account," he said.

"Manitoba's timber supplies have been going down hill for 100 years. Unrestricted forests have periodically cleared out the storhouse of wealth which was used to help create and to those industrial development parallel to those of Ontario and Quebec."

Eighty-seven per cent of the forest area is now composed of young growth or best of timber under 10 inches in diameter, such as fir for small saw timber.

"The wrecked and ruined condition of such vast areas of the provincial forests prevents that immediate increase in lumber production which would have come. But forests in most cases will recuperate, if fire is kept out, and that is the reason the western legislatures have asked to take measures against careless conduct in settlers' fires."

Boy Scout Notes

Items Gleaned From Far and Near of Interest to the Boy Scouts

"Up the River" is the motto of the Wolf Cubs. It is not only the motto but the aim of every member of this junior organization. Day in and day out the Wolf Cubs are endeavoring to "Do Their Best." That is why the wolf has spied out from the very beginning. A Wolf Cub is a boy between ages of nine and twelve, who has promised on his honor to do his best, to do his duty to God and King, and to do a good turn to someone every day.

When C. E. Rhoads died and left his money for scholarship purposes, his will directed that to win a scholarship a member must display notable achievement in school work, the out of doors, strong, virile character and an unselfish desire to serve others. A New York State Boy Scout, Ernest S. Griffith, of Utica, N. Y., has filled all these requirements and is now in college.

The moment has now arrived. Last autumn the time was not ripe, but today the moment has come when the first class prepared for success, we can undertake this enterprise. We must not wait any longer. Where has there been a change? In the first place the most important factor is the fact that our submarines have been considerably increased as compared with last spring, and thereby a firm basis has been created for success."

"Does not this prove conclusively that it was not any scruple or any respect for international law or neutral rights that prevented unrestricted warfare from being adopted earlier, but merely a lack of means to carry out such a plan? It may be justified as a reprisal for the action of Great Britain in attempting to cut off from Germany all imports."

"The moment has now arrived when we can take a stand. We were recently contemplated as far back as December, 1914, when Admiral von Tirpitz gave an indication to an American correspondent in Berlin of the planned plan. As for the plea that the allies were responsible for the initiation of unrestricted submarine warfare, it is therefore justified, it is sufficient in order to quote this to the following passage from the allies' reply to J. F. Wilson, in 1917, to President Wilson's note:

"There is no need to say that if the allies desire to liberate Europe from the brutal consequences of Prussian militarism, the farce and political disappearance of the German people has never, as has been pretended, formed a part of their design."

The alliance made to Russia by the Germans cannot hardly be treated seriously. A government of Hohenzollerns cannot pose as the champions of freedom and self-government as against autocracy. While the German people are the basis of a truly representative government, and are no longer dominated by a military autocracy, Germans may appear in that role, but not until then."

The terms stipulate that there must be at least three applicants in any one year from each country. Each year may select the one who satisfies the conditions most effectively. The free scholarship covers the amount of the annual incidental laboratory and infirmary fees, and the Scouting expenses, the scholar being able to take four years of work for the cost of books, clothing, room and board.

Every seat in the caravans occupied, when a group of women got in. Governmental collectors fared, the conductor noticed a man who he thought was asleep. "Wake up!" shouted the conductor, "I wasn't asleep," said the passenger. "Not asleep," snapped the conductor. "What do you mean—your eyes closed?"

"It was because of the crowded condition of the car," explained the passenger, "I hate to see the women standing."

China Banishes Curse of Opium

Age-long Habit Which Crippled Millions Is To End After Long Fight

The country which for generations progressive in the world has won the greatest victory ever achieved over a vice that was a national curse, writes Charles Stirrup in The New York Sun. China has itself won by the distinction of being the oldest civilization in existence. It has set every Occidental example by abolishing the source of much misery, disease, poverty and weakness, for after March 31, the opium traffic ceased altogether.

A vice that has held tens of millions in its clutches is being exterminated. European and American investigators are agreed that the ravages of opium are worse than those of alcohol, but agree that the use of the Eastern drug is a more insidious habit than liquor, drinking hard to stimulate the body.

The present of high-class officials who were at one time users of opium was far higher than the proportion which alcohol could claim among the administrators and representatives of western countries, and representatives of the British government have in all cases been hampered by influential personal influence such as would not be met with elsewhere. Ridding the Celestes of its favorite vice has therefore been a greater and more wonderful even than Russia's abolition of vodka; but it has been accomplished after ten years' of well planned work of a thorough, uncompromising kind, to the inalienable benefit and everlasting

New Elevators for Alberta

Will Reach From the Peace River to the Boundary in the South

Elevator companies are planning to construct and operate a large number of new storerooms in Alberta. Alberta Farmers' Co-operative Company count on putting up 40 new elevators in the province before the 1917 crop is ripe, these to reach from the Peace River to the southern boundary.

Already 36 sites have been secured and negotiations are under way for the remainder. All railway lines, and new standards will appear in practically every branch of line in the province. The cost of the elevators is placed roughly at $350,000 and the capacity will range from 35,000 to 65,000 bushels each. The buildings will be planned much the same as those already in use by this company, and will be modern handling and storing buildings.

These storage space capacity of these elevators at 40,000 bushels, the total additional capacity which will be provided by this company for the 1917 crop will be 1,600,000 bushels. Work is to be commenced at once, and about 150 men will be employed.

Wheat is a Winner

An American Finds Farming Is Profitable in Southern Alberta

The following is extracted from the "Turlock Journal" of Turlock, Stanislaus County, California:

"There seems no just reason why Northern Manitoba, should not repeat to a degree the wonderful development in wood-using industries now taking place in Quebec. Manitoba's timber production is not the only people making out of the work. J. R. Armstrong, in leaving for Lethbridge, Southern Alberta, today said that three years ago he rented an improved ranch and lumber mill, and immediately started industrial growth in the northern forested areas with their fine water powers. The trouble has been that culture and forestry has lagged behind like poor relations."

This was a statement made by Mr. Robson Black, secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association, Ottawa.

"None of the provinces of Canada has ever given up so much timber in five per cent. of northern Manitoba above the open prairie will never give crops other than timber."

There is little use bemoaning these facts. We ought to turn them to immediate account," he said.

"Manitoba's timber supplies have been going down hill for 100 years. Unrestricted forests have periodically cleared out the storhouse of wealth which was used to help create and to those industrial development parallel to those of Ontario and Quebec."

Eighty-seven per cent of the forest area is now composed of young growth or best of timber under 10 inches in diameter, such as fir for small saw timber.

Women in Russia

Will Occupy Influential Places Throughout the Empire

A significant announcement is made concerning the part that women will play in the guidance of new Russia. Women are at once being placed in important positions with the communists, while the government of Petrograd and we can confidently look for them to occupy influential places throughout the empire.

The status of women in Russia has been different than in any other continental country. The revolution, which has waxed and waned alternately for generations, but which never has been suppressed, has given power to women to a remarkable extent. The women of Russia have become exceedingly salty and the legend of the Dead Sea fruit has become proverbial. The Jordan Valley was once rank in vegetation, and the women of Russia have turned to a sort of salt garden, and have created a salted pickle fund. As the farmers came in and drew down an extra big check, they were given a chance to share their blessings with the soldiers by giving them salted pickles.

Mr. Armstrong, Mr. Dunn has purchased a section of land at Lethbridge and loaded his farming outfit in two cars Saturday and started on them to the south. Mr. Dunn is a practical farmer and no doubt will make good wherever he goes."

Business Activity After the War

There is no reason to anticipate business activity after the war in the same degree as in the United States. A picture of Russia's aspirations to democracy are real and secure is given in the prompt admission of women to their share in the responsibilities of government.—Detroit News.

Some men are bound to look important even if they have to wear a double-breasted frock coat on a hot summer's day—Pontiac Press-Gazette.

When fortune knocks at a shiftless man's door he is usually over at a neighbor's trying to borrow some thing.

Palestine, where a British force is operating now, has an area of but little over half that of Nova Scotia, though it requires a cold imagination to speak of the Holy Land in the plain terms of geography. The district is bounded by the Mediterranean, the Dead Sea, the Jordan River, and the Tigris-Euphrates, all of which are varying in size according to the season. The Jordan flows into the sea, the Tigris-Euphrates into the Persian Gulf, and the Euphrates into the Mediterranean.

In this is like Little Belgium, the "cockpit of Europe," and the association of the two lands just now does not seem to fit the exercise much thought: they are evermore linked in historic sufferings. Greeks, Romans and Parthians among the ancients held sway in Palestine, and in later centuries the Arabs, the Seljuk Turks, Crusaders, and in recent times the Mongols overran it prior to their settlement in Hungary.

The geology of the country has been studied in some detail. The following is extracted from the "Turlock Journal" of Turlock, Stanislaus County, California:

"FRECKLES"

One of the most important offerings of the current season at Arm's hall is the presentation of Neil Twomey's dramatization of Gene Stratton-Porter's charming story "Freckles," which is announced for Wednesday, May 16.

The fact that there have been more readers of this story than any other book published in a decade—a fact estimate is in the million—makes this dramatization of the utmost importance to the dramatic world.

"Freckles" as a song-play is stronger than "Freckles" as a story. The characters live, love and have adventure—one can see and hear, there is nothing left to imagination. The United Producing Company, under whose management the present tour is conducted, has made the production of "Freckles" exceedingly elaborate, and has assembled a company of unusual excellence for the presentation of this charming song-play.

The music for the plays and songs rendered by Freckles and others are a novelty from a musical point of view. The Woodland Fantasy played during the play is a masterpiece.

Doctor Tells How to Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent. In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filed and Use at Home

LONDON.—Do you wear glasses? Are you a person with eyesight below the average? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Millions of people throughout the world have had their eyes restored through the use of this prescription. "The eyes of one man says, after trying it, 'I was almost blind; I could not see to read at all. Now I can see clearly again.' Another says, 'My eyes do not see any more. At night they burn and pain me, making me feel like all that I am.' It was not until I used this prescription that my eyes began to quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now. If you have been told that your eyes might have been saved if they had care for them earlier, you will be glad to know that they can be saved now." A lady who used it says, "The atmosphere here is very bad, and I have been out after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read the newspaper again." Another says, "I am sure that thousands who wear glasses can now dispense with them. This prescription will do more than anything else to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever having to wear glasses again." Descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by

More Barbarism
Russia Cossack's Were Roasted Alive by the Germans

Among the almost-reporterless horrors that have been brought to light in Russia, the most ghastly is that of Russian soldiers and civilians by the German military authorities is a case of a Russian who refused to give away his regiment's movements. The man was led to a hole in the ground, then conducted to a room where he was stripped naked and placed upon a table. The officer then attached an electric needle complete with a dynamo to the Cossack's body, and applied a live current of torture for half an hour. The victim heroically refused to give any information, and the torturing process was repeated on the two following days. In this process, the German officer applied a red hot iron and rubbed it over the Cossack's feet. In spite of his frightful sufferings the latter managed to escape. During an advance on the Russian left flank, the Germans placed prisoners, mostly Russian infantry prisoners in a house, took them out one by one, and after bayonets, threw them into the river. Wagons, hewed them into the river. During a village fight the Germans captured a woman, and after impounding them in a house for three days without food or medical assistance. When the Germans withdrew, they set fire to the house after placing cartridges in the roof. Ten managed to crawl out but the rest were burned to death.

Snivelling Hypocrisy
All this clamor about the British hypocrisy, which, "indifferent to the fate of humanity, and upon 'concerning its war of starvation,' is snivelling hypocrisy. Starvation is a legitimate measure from time immemorial, the most colossal example having been that of the Southern Confederacy, which was literally starved into surrender by the Union blockade.

The German government in August, 1914, took a gamblers' chance with the world. For years now it has been wages a ruthless war upon neutrals as well as upon its enemies in a desperate attempt to save a criminal autocracy from the consequences of its own folly, and there will be no assurance of peace for anybody in the world until that autocracy is crushed.—New York World.

The Lure of Bagdad

Bagdad's importance cannot be minimized. It has a future commensurate with its past, and it plays a part in the dream of things to come that more than equals the glory that is going to befall Germany. On the Bosphorus and Gothen discarded their caps and donned the fez so that the attacks upon Russian ships would bring Turkey into the war, it was the lure of Bagdad and what lay beyond that caused the Emperor to issue his command. Bagdad was not the prize, but it was the symbol of German ambitions in this direction. It was, of all places in the sun, the spot most coveted by the dreamers of German world dominion.—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Backyard's Importance
The importance of the backyard is more important that citizens should cultivate their own backyards than that vacant lots should be developed spoke a simple truth. It is the backyards of the aggregate from which the increased supplies must come.—London Free Press.

SATISFIED MOTHERS

No other medicine gives as great satisfaction to mothers as does Baby's Liniment. These Tablets are especially good for the babe or the growing child. They are absolutely free from injurious drugs and cannot possibly do harm—always good. Concerning Mrs. Jos. Moraine, St. Paulophile, Que., writes, "I have had the pleasure of using Baby's Liniment for my little ones. The tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

Miller's Worm Powders are complete in themselves. They not only drive worms from the system, but remove dangerous parasites, and so invigorate the constitution that it speedily recovers from the disorders of the digestion that are the result of the work of these parasitic intruders. They do their work thoroughly and strong and soundly follow their use.

Robert Ball had delivered a lecture on "Sun Spots and Solar Chemistry," says the Chicago News. A young lady who met him expressed her regret at having missed the lecture.

Life Preserver And Travelling Bag

A Unique Invention That Would Prove Useful in an Emergency

Designed now to look like an ordinary travelling bag, but used as one under ordinary conditions, a life preserver that has just been invented apparently provides a sensible solution to the problem of safety at the time of sudden emergency. The bag is made with a false bottom that serves to hold in folded position a water-tight lining suit which is attached in such a way that the bag and suit act as a water-tight unit. The air space in the bag is used to dump out the contents of the bag, remove the false bottom, to let the suit unfold, and get inside. The user then closes and locks the top of his head and jumps into the water, proving himself buoyant being supplied by the bag. The body of the bag is equipped with a window and with valves that admit air but prevent water. Inside, there is space for stored food, clothing, etc., for several days. To prevent disaster in case the water-tight suit is punctured, an air-tight bag is punctured and installed inside the traveling bag.

Dogs and Cats in War

Are Put to Good Use in Bidding the War of Rodents

Hundreds of thousands of dogs are now serving their countries at the front. The canines have a wide range of duties, according to transportation supplies over the battle lines, carrying messages, and big Belgian dogs also draw machine guns. The Red Cross has hundreds of four-footed assistants who search out the wounded in the "No Man's Land" between the trenches. Terrible and agonizing are the important duties to perform in freeing the trenches of the swarms of rats which infest them. The cats "do their bit" in the various storerooms back of the front, and the dogs are called "great damage if left alone."

The demand for cats as mouse catchers and for dogs as rat catchers greater than the supply. From all over France have been shipped to the front to conceive the idea of food supply for the ravaged rodents. Country cats are preferred to city cats for this purpose.

In the early months of trench warfare the trenches swarmed with rats. But the dogs were soon adopted by the French military authorities. They announced that each pilot feigning a rat catching dog to the trenches would be rewarded by two days' additional leave of absence on next pay day. So many dogs did this that one was issued every soldier who visits his home makes it a point to find a terrier or a spaniel to take back to the front with him. Each owner of a dog also gets a right to a small sum for each cat killed at the front. The fortune of an ambitious canine is greatly envied by his comrades.

The dogs and cats who serve their country in this way are favorites with the trench rats, who consider them to be the best food.

They are particularly fond of rats, with lass of sport and plenty to eat. Fido has only to bark or Puss to mew to induce the polus to divide up their food.

The Angel Child

Exuberance of Spirits Seems to Be Necessary if the Child Is to

Amount to Anything

Dr. Francis M. Greene, social hygiene specialist of Boston issues a statement which should discourage parents who are in the habit of boasting about the health of their children. Dr. Greene classifies children in three groups: Very good ones, who are usually stupid; hereditary; hereditarily devious and normal; boisterous, troublesome youngsters.

Two kinds of juvenile badness are recognized even by childless observers in the average home—the badness of selfishness, petulance and cruelty and the badness of excessive vitality, which manifests itself in destructiveness and uprightness.

The first kind is against the excessively good child. He will have a hard time of it in school and on the playground. A streak of wildness, of rough-and-ready assertiveness, if cultivated, yields the individuality and the self-confidence that commands.

The Kaiser's Sermonette

Must Raise Eyes and Hearts to the Leader of Battles

The "Kreuz Zeitung," the organ of the Prussian caste, published every Saturday a sermonette of an exalted pietist type, which is supposed to represent the ideas of the court, and especially of the emperor and empress. The following extract includes a discourse of "God's Hour," the words of the text being, My time is not yet come, but your time is always ready:

We are now in the midst of most serious times, the greatest of which since the war has begun. Daily thousands of tons of shipping and munitions and food are being sunk. At the front our armies are in feverish activity. The decision draws near, whether the world holds its breath. When, where will the decisive blow fall?

"And what shall we do? We must be impatient, there must be no despair. We must have confidence in our leader and leaders. Above all we must raise eyes and hearts to the Leader of Battles, the King of all Kings."

"From the watchtowers on the walls must now sound forth the cry: Consecrate ourselves to God! Consecrate ourselves to our master! Consecrate ourselves to our members! Our prayer must be that the great hour of decision shall be God's hour for our beloved German nation."

I consider MINARD'S LINIMENT THE BEST Liniment in the world to Be Erected in Detroit

Plans for what is expected to be the tallest building in the world—57 stories—to cost $15,000,000, and capable of accomodating 16,000 people, have been completed by Detroit architect. Options have been obtained on a $5,000,000 site, bounded by Michigan and Cass avenues, Lafayette boulevard and Abbot streets, and residential tenders have been called for.

The building as planned will be a city in itself, with a postoffice, police station, arena seating 16,000 people, a quarter-mile track and an auditorium with 3000 capacity.

The plans call for a 27-story hotel and 57 stories of offices, running up to a tower 805 feet high, compared with the 789 feet of the Woolworth building, New York, two stories higher, and erected by the same architect.

It is expected to be completed by 1917.

According to the plans there will be 432 rooms. The foundations will be carried to bed rock. In the basement will be located 50 display rooms, 1000 stores, seven apartment halls, two small convention halls, one service room, one dining room, two ball rooms, and one hotel on the second floor of the building.

Courage is responsible for fewer attempts at performing dangerous feats than lack of common sense.

When you think that you are going to learn to love a girl remember that a little learning of that sort is particularly dangerous thing.

One of the commonest complaints of infants is worms, and the most effective application for them is Mothier Graves' Worm Exterminator.

English Navy Have 400,000 Men

It has already been announced that the total estimated force of the Royal Navy for 1916-17 is to be 400,000 officers and men. A supplementary estimate provides for the addition of 50,000 of all ranks during the current financial year. With the passing of this year the aggregate of 400,000 men will already have been provided for the original estimate for 1916-17 having been 350,000. London Telegraph.

"The Cow Bill"

The Live Stock Encouragement Act, which was passed at the recent session of the Alberta Legislature, commonly known as "The Cow Bill," is now in operation, and applications are being received at the Department of Agriculture for loans under this Act. The Act provides that any five or more farmers may avail themselves of its provisions by joining together for that purpose. These men may borrow up to $500 each. The money is loaned to them for a period of five years at 6 percent interest. The farmer receives the full $500 and he has nothing to pay but $30 interest once a year until the end of five years. The only expense in connection with the loan is a fee of $1 for every $100 borrowed. There is no further expense in connection with chattel mortgages or the registration of the same, as the Live Stock Commissioner in the Department of Agriculture holds the cattle in security for the loan by means of a government brand. A certain amount of supervision is made over the purchase of the cattle, or rather, the farmer is given whatever assistance he may require in the purchase of his cows. The money must be used exclusively in the purchase of cows or heifers, except in case a number of members of an association wish to purchase a pure-bred bull to be used by them as an association, and then 10 per cent. of their money may be used for that purpose.

The purchase of live stock under this Act must retain the progeny of the cows or heifers so purchased until the note is paid, except that he can sell the steers when they are two years old and use the proceeds in connection with his farming business. None of the original cows or heifers, or cows or heifers bred to them, can be sold without the written consent of the Live Stock Commissioner. This consent, of course, will be given in case a farmer should require to sell any of them on account of their being non-breeders or for any other reason, replacing those sold with other cows or heifers. In this way the live stock loans will practically all be well secured after the first crop of calves has been raised, so that there will be comparatively small amount of risk either for the Government or for any individual member of an association.

In order to avail themselves of this loan, five farmers are asked to join together, signing joint and several notes for the money, so that in case of any man wilfully neglecting his stock there will be some interested person in the shape of another member of the syndicate to notify the Live Stock Commissioner, and he, under the provisions of this Act can take charge of the stock so neglected, and see that the other members of the syndicate as well as the Government are protected against loss.

Provision is also made in the Act for the Live Stock Commissioner to proceed against the one man who so neglected his stock and compel him to pay whatever loss there is without involving the other members of the syndicate in a law-suit, the idea being to work out, as simply as possible, a system by which men can borrow money at a low rate of interest for the purchase of live stock, and still have reasonable protection for the Treasury of the Province of Alberta, which guarantees these loans, and thus materially reduces the rate of interest

Already a number of applications have been received from associations, and the Live Stock Commissioner is now prepared to take the matter up with any farmers who are interested in the Act. Write the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, for information, forms of application and copies of the Live Stock Encouragement Act. [Advt.]
